

BRIGHT DAWN

Mandarin pinyin: míng yáo rì

In Japanese

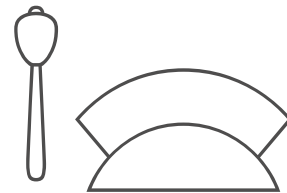

曉

明

Gyō-Mei / Dawn-Bright

Bright Dawn in Egyptian Hieroglyphs

ḥd ḥ'

Bright Dawn in Emojis

Dawn Goddesses

Proto-Indo-European: Haéusōs

Mesopotamia: Aya

Egyptian: Tefnut

Vedic: Ushas

Taoist: Bixia Yuanjun

Shinto: Ama-no-Uzume

Buddhist: Marici

Etruscan: Thesan

Armenian: Ayg

Greek: Eos (Artemis is also linked with Dawn)

Roman: Aurora / Mater Matuta

Slavic: Zorya

Germanic: Ēostre / Ôstara

Celtic: Brighid

Lithuanian: Aušra

Tagalog: Liwayway

Polynesian: Atarapa

Marquesan: Atanua

Tarot Major Arcanum 17: The Star

Christian: Our Lady of the Gate of Dawn / Our Lady of Ostra Brama

The seal script of the character 陽 (Yang) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

陽 Western Zhou
Bronze inscriptions

The seal script of the character 易 (Yi) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

易 Warring States
Chu slip & silk script

The seal script of the character 易 (Yi) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

易 Liushutong
(compiled in Ming) transcribed ancient scripts

The seal script of the character 易 (Yi) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

易 Western Zhou
Bronze inscription

The seal script of the character 易 (Yi) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

/ Shang Oracle
Bone script

The seal script of the character 易 (Yi) is shown. It features a large, circular sun-like symbol at the top, with a vertical line on the left and a curved line on the right, and a series of horizontal strokes at the bottom.

/ Shuowen Jiezi (compiled in Han)
small seal script

陽

or 阳

or 易

Mandarin yáng / Japanese affix yō

Glyph origin

陽 (Traditional) & 阳 (Simplified) Phono-semantic compound (形聲, OC *lan) and ideogrammic compound (會意): semantic 阜 (“hill”) + phonetic 易 (OC *lan, “sunshine”) – sun shining on a hill.

易 Ideogrammic compound (會意): 日 “sun” + 示 “altar” + 彡 “sunrays”.

Etymology

Either Sino-Tibetan or a Mainland Southeast Asian Wanderwort (loan-word); compare Burmese လင်း lang: “bright”, Lepcha a-lón “reflective light” & Thai ปลั่ง bplàng, “bright; shiny”.

Proto-Kuki-Chin meaning: shine; light; bright synonyms:

- 陽 sunshine
- 景 bright; scenery
- 鏡 mirror
- 亮 bright
- 章 brilliant, splendid; rule; emblem; display (v.)

陽

or 阳

or 易

Mandarin yáng / Japanese affix yō

Chinese meanings:

(philosophy) “male” principle; yang (in yin-yang)

light positive

sun

male genitals

open; overt

south-side of a mountain; north-side of a river

(phonetics of a syllable) closed with a nasal consonantal coda

Japanese Affix meanings:

sun; sunlight; light

yang (in yin-yang)

positive; plus; male

open; overt

Japanese noun meanings:

yang (in yin-yang)

the open (visible space)

<https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/陽>

<https://en.wiktionary.org/wiki/易>

compiled by DEWnada / Choyo Sensei

頂 陽

傾 陽

阜

阜 Mandarin (Pinyin): fù

Historical forms of the character 阜	mound; hill	abundant
-------------------------------------	-------------	----------

*Shang Oracle
Bone script*

/

*Shuowen Jiezi (compiled in Han)
Small seal script*

*Liushutong (compiled in Ming)
Transcribed ancient scripts*

Historical forms of the character 彡
Shuowen Jiezi (compiled in Han)	Liushutong (compiled in Ming)
Small seal script	Transcribed ancient scripts

Pictogram (象形): 3 strands of hair / Meaning: hair / Mandarin (Pinyin): shān

Historical forms of the character 示
Shang		Warring States	Shuowen Jiezi (compiled in Han)		Liushutong (compiled in Ming)
Bronze inscriptions	Oracle bone script	Chu Slip and silk script	Ancient script	Small seal script	Transcribed ancient scripts

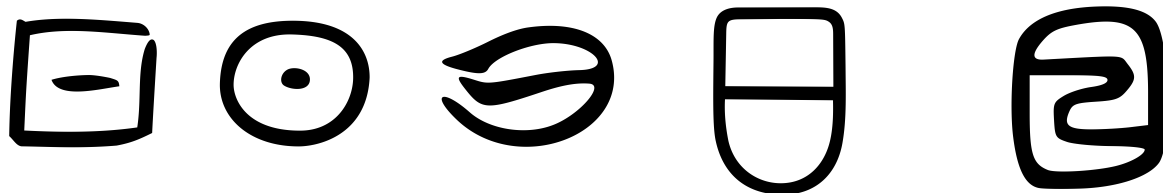

Pictogram (象形) – an altar. The original form is similar to unrelated character 丅, and additional strokes are added to prevent confusion.

示 Definition: to show

Pronunciation Mandarin (Standard) (Pinyin): shì

Historical forms of the character 日
Shang	Western Zhou	Warring States	Shuowen Jiezi (compiled in Han)	Liushutong (compiled in Ming)
Oracle bone script	Bronze inscriptions	Chu Slip and silk script	Small seal script	Transcribed ancient scripts

Mandarin (Standard) (Pinyin): rì

Pictogram (象形) – the Sun. A dot or line was added in the centre to distinguish it from visually similar characters, e.g. 冂 (early form of 丁).

Compare earlier forms of the character with the astronomical & astrological symbol for the Sun ☉ & the Egyptian hieroglyph ☉.

Etymology 1

— “Sun; day; etc.”

From Proto-Sino-Tibetan s-nəj*. Cognate to Tibetan ཉི་མ (nyi ma, “sun, day”), Burmese ငါး (ne., “day”), S'gaw Karen ႵႵ (nĩ, “day”), and Sichuan Yi ႵႵ (nyip, “day, daytime”).

— “to fuck”

Essentially a substitute character for 入 (MC ɳip̚, “to enter”), that preserves the expected modern pronunciation of 入.

BRIGHT DAWN in Chinese Pictographs of 易

SUN-ALTAR-SUNRAYS [Mandarin pinyin: rì shì shān]

Shang Oracle
Bone script

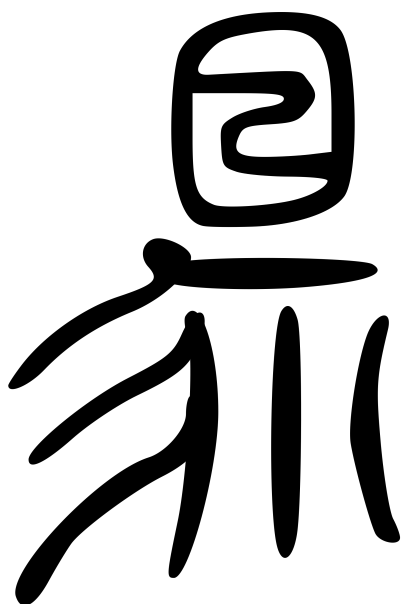

Western Zhou
Bronze inscriptions

Shuowen Jiezi
Small seal script

Liushutong
Transcribed Ancient Scripts

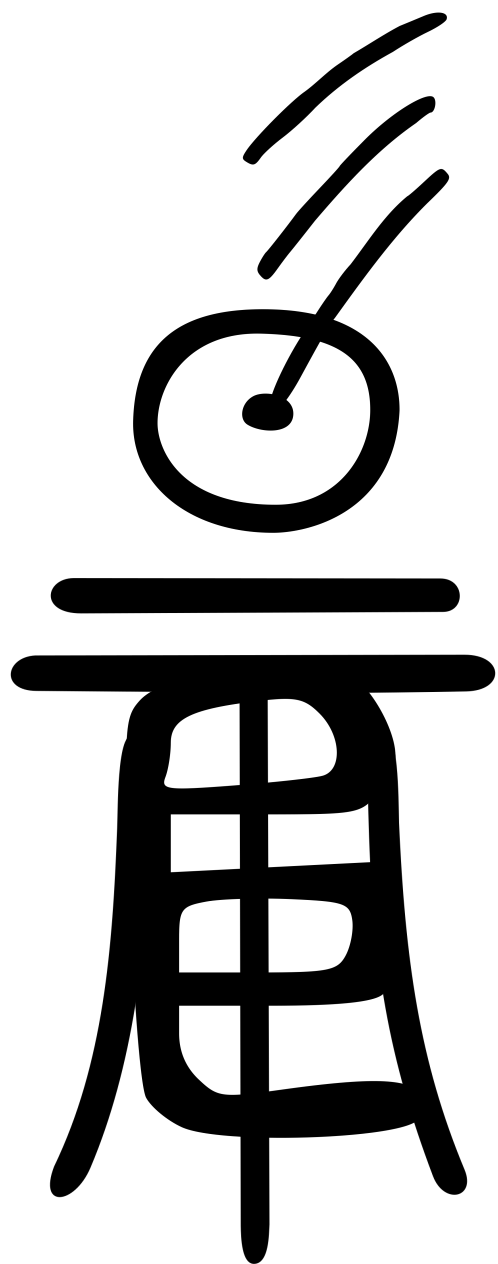

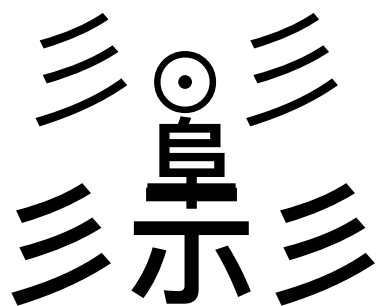

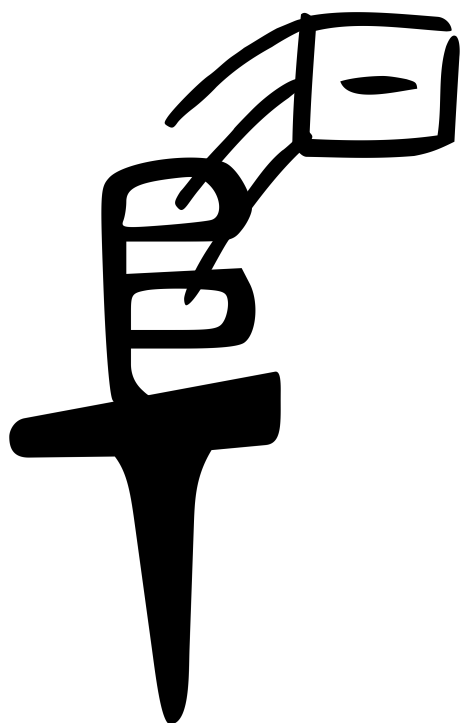

陽 are the rest

Warring States Chu Slip & silk script

fù rì shì shān

Mixes of fù rì shì shān 陽

Luminous mind (Skt. prabhāsvara-citta or ābhāsvara-citta, Pali: pabhassara citta; Tib. འོ་སལ་གྱི་སེམས་ 'od gsal gyi sems; C. 光明心 guangmingxin; J. 光明心 kōmyōshin; K. kwangmyōngsim) is a Buddhist term which appears in a sutta of the Pali Anguttara Nikaya as well as numerous Mahayana texts and Buddhist tantras.^[1] It is variously translated as "brightly shining mind", or "mind of clear light" while the related term luminosity (Skt. prabhāsvaratā; Tib. འོ་སལ་བ་ 'od gsal ba; Ch. guāng míng; Jpn. kōmyō; Kor. kwangmyōng) is also translated as "clear light" in Tibetan Buddhist contexts or, "purity" in East Asian contexts.

Bright

Jap affix pronunciation: (kō) Chinese: guang

Dawn

Chinese dàn Jap tan

BRIGHT DAWN in Ancient Chinese Glyphs

光 旦

Japanese: kō tan

Mandarin: guāng dàn

信心 = shinjin = bright = prasādaḥ = प्रसादः
旦 = Dawn (Mandarin Pinyin: dàn)

旦

信

心

उषसः प्रसादः

uṣásaḥ prasādaḥ Dawn's brightness

BRIGHT DAWN

